Issue # 51 Vol. 3 JULY 15-16, 2017 15th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (YEAR A)

TWO WAYS TO COOPERATE WITH GOD'S GRACE

Without the help of God's grace, our freedom cannot long resist the influence of the devil, the world, and the flesh. And yet, God's grace doesn't make us into saints unless we cooperate with it. There are two ways we can cooperate with God's grace.

First, we can use well of the gifts God has given us as channels of grace: the sacraments, the Bible, the teachings of the Church, the example and intercession of the saints, and, most importantly of all, the gift of prayer. If we aren't using these gifts eagerly and intelligently, and constantly learning how to use them better, we are like soldiers letting their weapons get rusty.

Second, we can exercise our freedom, just as we exercise our muscles. This means making conscious choices, motivated by worthy reasons. The husband and father who goes to work every day for years just out of routine, and doesn't consciously renew each day his commitment to his family and to the common good, the reasons behind his going to work, will eventually face an existential crisis. The Christian who comes to Mass every Sunday for years just out of routine, but doesn't consciously renew his personal commitment to Jesus Christ each Sunday, which is the reason behind coming to Mass, will eventually drift away from God.

We must know the reasons behind our choices, and we must consciously renew our commitment to those reasons. That's how we exercise our freedom and defend ourselves against the hidden cancer of routine - the secret ally of the devil, the world, and the flesh.

Today, as Christ renews his commitment to us in this Mass, let's renew our personal love for him in the depths of our hearts, choosing freely, once again, to be his faithful followers.

Nothing will please him more. (e-Priest.com)
